De Mazenod Door Outreach

The Poor • The Marginalized • The Inner-City Youth

What an amazing opportunity it was this past weekend for Fr. Adam Zettel from Regnum Christi Ontario, to embrace our model of 'Servant Leadership' and lead the 26 university students from their Youth Ministry that came along with him. They came to spend the day at the De Mazenod Farm last Saturday, working and learning about the Farm ministry and then on the Sunday, eight of those youth came to serve at the De Mazenod Door. Fr. Adam is no stranger to hard work, as he grew up on a dairy farm and brought his team to Hamilton early Saturday morning to assist with the much needed weeding and cleaning at the farm.

On Sunday morning at the De Mazenod Door many of the students were very surprised to see just how many people were lined up waiting for a meal. They asked many questions and inquired about how they too can volunteer on a regular basis. Like us all, they were extremely saddened to see families with young children coming to get something to eat. Their questions and concerns were sincere and each of them who embraced the opportunity to serve at the Door, were so kind and compassionate to each individual they served.

Thank you for coming here to sharing your shining example of loving people like Christ does! God is raising up Saints!

We thank everyone for their prayers, time, talents and treasures!

SILENCE AND SEEDBEDS

“The harvest is plentiful, but the labourers are few”. As a seminarian, one question I hear quite often surrounds the apparent lack of vocations and the shortage of priests in the church. “Where are all the vocations? Isn’t God calling people to serve him anymore?”, many ask.

At times, it can definitely feel like God has stopped calling people to the priesthood and religious life. After all, if he was still calling them, surely there would be more vocations, right? Where are the 70 that Jesus sent ahead of him in the gospel today?

As is often the case, the problem lies not with God, but with ourselves. God is still calling people to serve him; we are the ones not listening. For many people today, God is simply not on their radar. With so many other things to occupy their time, it’s no wonder people aren’t hearing God anymore.

Without getting too much into it, think of how rare it actually is to find yourself in a moment of silence. Music, the radio, social media, our phones – all these things, while not bad in and of themselves, can distract us from the things that truly matter: relationships with others. And what relationship matters more than the one we have with our Creator? When was the last time you found yourself in a moment of silence without trying to fill it? Or what about the last time you went on a silent retreat?

In our high production, instant gratification, super-consumer society, these things tend to fall to the wayside. I recall the passage in 1 Kings where God has Elijah go to Mt. Horeb to await his arrival. As Elijah is waiting, he experiences a great wind, an earthquake, and a fire, yet God was in none of these. Instead, Elijah encounters God in “a sound of sheer silence” (v. 12). This is particularly telling: silence is the seedbed of vocations.

As we begin this new week, let us spend some time in silence, actively trying to reorient ourselves to our Creator. Let us “ask the Lord of the harvest to send out labourers into his harvest” and in the silence of our hearts, let us pray for the courage to follow where he leads us.

Let us rediscover the value of sacred silence: in the car, in the liturgy, in every moment, let us listen for God in the sound of sheer silence.
